

The most rewarding returns you'll ever get.

Invest in our Freedom Fund and help abolish modern slavery

Right now, more than 50 million people are trapped in the horror of modern slavery — just over half in forced labour and nearly 22 million in forced marriages; 6.3 million are experiencing commercial sexual exploitation, the vast majority women and children.

Set your capital free

The Amova Freedom Fund lets you put idle capital to work without having to commit to regular donations. Unlike a typical charity where you donate your money via a one-way transaction, the Freedom Fund lets you invest your capital and request a full or partial return of your investment at any time.

Delivering returns beyond measure

While your capital is invested, it will be put to work as part of a pooled fund generating returns. Rather than passing on the returns from your investment to you, we donate them, along with our management fees, directly to the Tearfund charity to ensure the people who need them most are benefiting.

For example, if you invested $10,000 and the Fund generated a total return of 2.5%, then $250, along with all our management fee, will be gifted to Tearfund and you will retain your $10,000 investment.

How your money is invested

The Fund is structured to provide a relatively stable income stream to the charity, and this is achieved by having around 90% of the assets in NZ cash and bonds.

Investors do bear some investment risk if asset values fall, but any such losses will be recouped by investors before donations of future gains recommence to the charity.

Here's what Tearfund has achieved in Thailand in 2024

How Tearfund is making a difference

Tearfund works through partnership in some of the poorest parts of the world. Together, they offer an end-to-end response to the issue of human trafficking and slavery, tackling poverty and injustice through sustainable development.

Tearfund NZ's work focuses on creating systemic change to protect vulnerable women and children by dismantling criminal networks and bringing them to justice.

Stronger, together

Amova is proud to be working alongside such a dedicated group of partners who have also generously donated their time, expertise and resources to make the Freedom Fund possible.
